Kansas City, MO – January 16, 2012 – Arrow Material Handling Products (Arrow), one of the largest manufacturers and distributors of fork tines and attachments in North America, announced its plans to open a new distribution center in Mississauga, Ontario, Canada in March 2012.

The new distribution center will be Arrow's fourth location in North America, and its first in Canada. "We are happy to announce the opening of our fourth distribution center," said Ross Gault, Sr., President & CEO of Arrow. "Arrow saw demand for our products increase in 2011, and this new distribution center will allow us to provide better service and product support to our customers in Canada. Delivery times will be faster, and shipping cost will be lower."

The new distribution center, which will open by March 4th, will stock a wide variety of Arrow's best selling products, such as ITA forks, shaft mount forks for telehandlers, pallet frames for skid steers, and universal attachments such as booms, trailer spotters, and work platforms used in material handling, construction, and rental equipment industries.

Arrow's three other locations include their manufacturing facility in Kansas City, Missouri, and warehouse distribution centers in Chesapeake, Virginia and Commerce, California.
